DEDICATION

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES A. CANNON

To Mr. and Mrs. Cannon whose faithful, wholehearted, and efficient work in services to Cannon High School for the past four years has played an important part in its success, and whose interest in the welfare of the students has helped to promote better citizenship in our school, we, the senior class of the J. W. Cannon High School, with deepest appreciation and gratitude do hereby dedicate this 1945 yearbook.

CLASS HISTORY

Early in September in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred forty-one, a new colony was planted on the continent of J. W. Cannon High School. Shy and inexperienced these settlers were and unprepared for the many problems and great adventures which lay before them. For that reason, they called themselves Freshmen. The colonists found unlimited helpful instructions from a clan called teachers. Under their guidance, the Freshmen began to become adjusted to their new home. War came to the colonies that year, greatly affecting the life of the colony and the destiny of its members.

By the time a year had passed, the colonists were no longer inexperienced and therefore changed their name to Sophomores. Now settled in their new surroundings, the Sophomores enjoyed good times as well as hard work. During their second year, they made great advancements in many fields.

At the beginning of their third year, the Sophomores again changed their name—this time to Juniors. An eventful year this was for the Juniors. For the first time they shared with the Seniors, an adjoining colony, the fun and gaity of the Senior-Junior Masquerade and the Junior-Senior Dance. Juniors and teachers cooperated in giving a successful play, sports were entered into, and as in years before, the knowledge found in books was given importance.

At last arrived the long awaited fourth year. The colonists were now entitled to call themselves Seniors and as such to enjoy many privileges. The studying of books was still important, but in all the excitement of other activities, it was sometimes almost forgotten. Parties, sports, music, dances, art, and dramatics were all enjoyed. The Seniors realized the true fullness of life in the colonies. But before the end of the year, they again turned their eyes to other seas. The land of the future beckoned.

So one day in early June, a number slightly less than four years before left the High School land they loved so well. They parted perhaps never to meet again. But always they will remember the four happy years they spent together in the land of Cannon High.

—GILDA KOONTZ.

CLASS POEM

MARCELYN GREENE

Tears bathe the smile today,
For parting time is nigh.
One lap of our way is o'er now,
As life goes fleeting by.

We've had our ups and downs;
School days aren't all just smiles.
We've fought the battle, the victory won;
Yet rough has been the way and long the miles.

Striving for our conquered goals,
We've made high and fair our creed;
We will keep them, we must keep them,
To rid this world of hatreds and greeds.

We would not forget our friends,
Nor our teachers who've guided us through;
We'd like to say, "Many thanks!"
To each and every one of you.

To the spirit of dear ole Cannon High,
We leave our cheers, our yells for you.
We'd root for you until we die,
For we know your defeats will be few.

To classmates who take over when we're gone
We leave the places to man our gun.
You'll love it just as we do now,
Those wonderful days of high school fun.

Let us remember our parents too
Who've helped in so many ways;
The sacrifices, the thoughts, the smiles you've given
Are due our highest praise.

And so we bid good-day just now;
Never will we say good-bye.
We'll live with you in spirit forever,
Lest we forget you, Cannon High.

In Memoriam

MRS. PAT GLASS
BORN—AUGUST 30, 1906
DIED—MARCH 14, 1945
J. W. Cannon High School Faculty—1942-1945

The curtain of life hath descended.
Upon one whom we all held dear.
But still our hearts are lightened
As a new life for her doth appear.

Although her friendly smile, we cannot see,
The memory still remains.
Our thoughts of her will ever be
As sunshine with no clouds of rain.

Her eyes so clear and shining bright
Are closed in peaceful slumber.
No death can ever reach her there,
Where she is with the angel's number.

Her laughing presence is gone now.
But still to all we say,
She was not said, but happy
As the angel took her away.

Away, away from this earth's life,
Her good will to spread no more.
Away, away from war and strife,
She's waiting at Heaven's door.

Her Life on earth is over.
The path here, so well trod.
Our dear and beloved teacher
Is at rest with the world, and God.

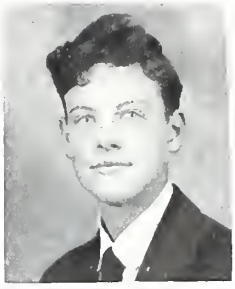
PROPHECY



RALPH SLAWSON

Having settled down in my big comfortable easy chair, I had decided to spend an enjoyable afternoon at the radio, listening to the Sunday Philharmonic Orchestra in concert. As I slowly sipped my iced tea, I heard the announcer remark that Billie Doris Watts, a guest singer on the program, was going to sing Schubert's Serenade. Why, she was graduated in 1945 from Cannon High School! I could hardly wait to hear her, because she was good in high school. But you can't imagine my surprise when I heard that Franklin Pethel was to play the piano in the Philharmonic's presentation of Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue. The day, however, was very hot and sultry; and, I guess I became over comfortable and dozed off to dreamland.

In my dream I thought I heard bells ringing, and as the haze cleared, there was my old alma mater! Cannon High School came into view. Looking closer, I observed a huge sign on the front. It read, 'Alumnae Day for Class of '45," Well, I was welcome, for I had received my diploma in 1945.

I chanced upon a strange group which, I decided after a moment of recollection, was the group of successful professionals from the Senior Class of 1945.

First, I noticed a group of enthusiastic women who wore the latest styles in hair-do's. Going closer, I recognized Erma Lumsden as the leader in the discussion. Eloise Lee, Betty Young, and Hilda Sechler were trying to get something out of the discussion, but they also slipped some good into the bag of beauty, since they were successful proprietors of their own beauty shops.

Mary Ella Poole, along with Jane Hamilton, Dorothy Grayson and Vivian Harrington, had given their poor students enough work to keep them busy while they came down to chat with us as teachers where they themselves had been taught as high school students.

After ten years of experience for Uncle Sam, Ray Elliott, now a Colonel, had managed to get a furlough. Admiral Cleo Lloyd was comparing the navy life to the life Ray was leading.

That beauty ran wild in high school is proved by the fact that Betty Benson, Allene Swink, Eunice Safrit, and Louise Meeks are now in the famous group of exclusive Wrenn models, formerly owned by Powers, but the supreme judge of beauty is now Charles Wrenn.

The school kids were crowded around Suzie Whittington for autographs, but Diamond Carter, swoonster of all teen-agers, was slyly watching the scene; he had not yet been discovered. Making a hit in Bette Davis roles on the screen is Peggy MacKinley, heroine of our senior class play.

Men of the bridge-building profession are Homer Ketchie and Fred Goodman, who are experienced civil engineers.

I can see that many wizards and genuises were produced from the senior class, because Conley Graham, Joe Reese, Laverne Lea, and Mary Frances Belk were busy talking about their problems in the laboratory as laboratory technicians.

In the field of law, Gordon Smith, James Odell, W. C. Martin, and Johnny Graeber are prominent lawyers, while Howard Stiller and Ray Thornburg are in the state House of Representatives.

Lindy Stephens is now director of the newest swing band sensation. Taking Harry James' place on the radio, his new band contains a few members from Cannon High School. Ralph Brandon is playing the tenor saxophone; Jimmy Brown, the clarinet; and Herbert Bray, the trombone. The vocalists. Moody Chisholm, Martha Hartness, and Dot Cooke, are quite well known, too.

Earl Evans is the printer for Eugene Widenhouse's magazine, LASS, which is a sharp rival to ESQUIRE.

The world of literature is lucky to have in its journalistic field Betty Alexander, Gilda Koonty, and Helen Harris. Helen writes the lovelorn column for New York "Times." On the best seller list is Marcelyn Green's DIDDIES FROM CRECIE. Peggy Bradford's book of portraits and pencil sketches, Faces from Far and Near, is acclaimed by art critics everywhere.

Competent secretaries of the business world are Betty Compton, Imogene Shepherd, Elaine Watson, Billie Jean and Jackie Wellmon, Inez Williams, Bonnie Sue Overcash, Ruby Pinkston, Ruby Kerr, and Doris Jean Daniels.

Howard Whittington and Roland Horne are Presidents of the largest type-writing firm in America.

To the field of Medicine Cannon High donated Don Currie, Ralph Slawson, Hayne Cashion, and Jesse Walter, Alice Nash, Emily Culp, Peggy Daniels, Gilda Corbin, Jean Bryan, and Margie Canup are registered nurses in various hospitals all over the country.

Radio is proud to have discovered the greatest couple of comedians ever to make a name for themselves, Mary Ella Crayton and Henry Champion, Richard Gillon and Harold Holbrooks are radio technicians, while Max Cooke is a prominent announcer.

C. H. Sloop is a sturdy farmer on one of the more modernized farms. Farming machinery is Gene Phillips', Roland Overcash's and Wayne Goodnight's business.

Rival service station operators are E. H. Pool, Robert Strattin, and Bobby Wellmon. Jimmie Sappinfield, Billy Ritchie, and Charles Sherrill are some of Kannapolis' best mechanics.

Jimmy and Newmoon Jung and Bobby Hipps have inherited their fathers' laundries and are doing a thriving business in up-to-date laundrying.

Happily settled as housewives are Rebecca Bonds, Mary Ellen Beaver, Margaret Chisholm, Helen Cline, Phyllis Fisher, Lucy Efird, and Claudine Canup. Dress Designing is Audrey Barnes, who owns her own costuming agency from which many Hollywood companies get their exclusive clothes. Sue Crowe, Marie Cook, Wanda Daney, and Ollie Mae Freeze are on her staff of designers.

Sherman Julian, E. G. Boggs, Leonard Bassinger, Leroy Cline, and Hobart Benson are executives for Cannon Mills Company.

Photography, which developed from a high school hobby, has become the profession of Howard Stearns.

PROPHECY

The "Silver Slipper," an exclusive ladies' dress shop, is owned and operated jointly by Wybell Goodson and Hazel Cadell.

Having shown strong athletic ability in their schools days, Fleau and Cleo Purser, and Virginia Harris are girl's physical education directors; and Harold Propst, Tommy Reynolds, and Bobby Riddle are coaching for various high schools.

Charles Holbrooks, Hassel Patterson, and Bobby Fisher are co-owners of a great airline corporation.

Teaching college Mathematics is Billy Fesperman. Harry Freeze, Billy Riddle, and Sue Driver are also college professors.

Doris Darnell, Wanda Carey, and Rosalind Bodie are missionaries in different countries, while Tommy Goldston and J. W. Freeland have been on various expeditions into Africa as explorers.

Painting signs on bill boards, Bobby Crainshaw, Joe Anderson, James Adcock, and Billy Avant have come into public view.

With a host of household pets, Earl Ewing, Robert and Eugene Clayton are owners and operators of a city zoo. Melvin Christy and Nolan Childers run a pet shop.

The public amusement park is operated by Fred Black, Billy Cline, and Linney Coe, who are interested solely in the novelty of that profession.

Bill Cook, Jimmy Davis, and Billy Drexler are proprietors of a beach resort for summer tourists.

Through their love for children and their concern for the unfortunate ones, Christine Fiol, Rosalia Daniels, and Betty Phillips have organized an orphanage and do child welfare work.

Hilda Payne, critic and book reviewer for New York "Sun," probably has one of the most interesting professions from our class.

Proprietors of the "Busy Bee Beanery" are Sarah Andrews, Doris Copus, and Betty Ruth Dearman. An all-woman staff!

Advertising is Jeane Black's business and Mary Catherine Nash used her smile in toothpaste ads.

Gaye Alley and Kathleen Davis are dietitians at one of the larger Carolina hotels.

With the travelers are Charles Freeman and Floyd Jones, bus drivers, and Betty Castor, Ruth Deyton, and Jane Dill are workers for the traveler's aid.

The largest chain of stores in the country is managed jointly by Pete Nestlehutt and J. C. Honeycutt. Mildred Eberhardt, Phyllis Edwards, and Edith Brinkley are managers of two of the chain stores.

"We are not a bicycle shop, but let us sell you some petals" is the motto of Virginia Carter, Ailene Carter, and Francis Robinson's florist shop.

Claudia Woodward, Pearl Watson, and Ethelda Wilson are serving the public as welfare officers.

Librarians for the Library of Congress are Louise Bost, Dorothy Spry, and Elizabeth Bumgarner. They gained their experience at Cannon High School.

Working on the beautification of houses and being known, not only as set designers for Hollywood, as famous interior decorators, are Virginia Blackwelder, Barbara Blackburn, and Myra Ashworth.

Playing for a living, Earl Riggs, Carl Morgan, and Conrad Reese are professional baseball players.

Making delicatassens and good pastry and all the different goodies that go with the bakery shop, Bobby Reese, Carl McCombs, and Jimmy Jurney are feeding their goods to a hungry town.

Bill Herrin, Paul Hathcock, and Robert Hart are building Uncle Sam's merchant fleet while Gratton Mann, Lindsay Hardy, and John Hamrick are manning the ships.

Wallace Hale has hit the high spots with his boxing ability, and R. W. Hampton has set up his own miniature golf range on the outskirts of the city with Hoover Moss to help him.

Those "cute" new hats that women are going crazy over are some of the creations of Nolene Adams, Lois Anderson, and Edmona Baker, who are well-known hat designers.

Montine Moomey has a program of her own over C. B. S.; with her, as various assistants, are Ruby Pinkston, Betty Peebles, Pauline Patterson, and Hazel Rabb.

Living out in the country and getting healthier every day, is Lorene Mauldine, who, along with Lula Mae Galliher, Hazel Hibson, and Mary Louise Lawing, is operating a summer swimming pool, but in the winter she reorganizes and Betty Hurst, Bobby Jean McGinnis, and Frances Nesbitt help her entertain with ice skating.

Hidden among lofty mountains, rocky hillsides, and beautiful scenery Carolteen Jackson, Lois Richardson, and Mary Ellen Price conduct an exclusive school of art.

Betty Woodard, Eleene Hammonds, and Francis Morris have established a health department for women and are doing their share to make America's women slimmer and smaller.

Dorothy Gulledge, Elizabeth Goodman, and Ruby Hall have started a nylon hosiery store.

Audrey Hathcock, Hazel Harrington, and Doris Haskins in an endeavor to lift the standards of women, have established a women's bus-line, with an entire staff of lady bus-drivers.

Dealing with the old, Claudine Walker, Aderine Vickers, and Margie Herrin are proprietors of an antique shop.

Clara Stegall, Selma Starnes, and Lillie Mae Wheless are joint owners of a poultry farm.

Making their own fur coats and scarfs and doing everything but raising and killing the animals Phyllis Hartis, Barbara Imerson, and Christian Isenhour are expert furriers.

Truly doing their part in making beauty for the feminine sex, Daisy Ketner, Gertrude Link, and Iva Mae Martin are making color charts for finger nail polish and lipstick.

Selling music that has already been played, Irene Ketner, Reba Kite, and Earlene Poteat are running a record shop.

Marjorie Richardson, Elvia Rollins, and Elizabeth Sloop own a plant nursery, while Annie Rogers, Murline Simpson, and Colleen Wilhelm are proprietors of a book shop.

After I had talked and shaken hands with all these former students bells again began to ring, and I seemed to float out away from the crowd. I awoke just as the Philharmonic concert was ending; I hoped the program was good, but I felt as if I had been shown a true picture of the varied occupations that my former school-mates are doing; therefore, I felt that my missing the Sunday concert had been justified.

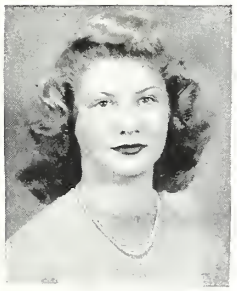
LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT



ALICE NELL NASH
Testator

Being of sound mind and body, we, the senior class of 1945, of J. W. Cannon High School, in the city of Kannapolis, the county of Cabarrus, and the State of North Carolina, do hereby make and declare this our Last Will and Testament.

ARTICLE I

To our beloved and cherished school, we leave our respect, our loyalty and a desire for a prosperous future.

ARTICLE II

To the oncoming class, our beloved Juniors, we leave our coveted front seats in the auditorium and all our senior expenses.

ARTICLE III

To our dear teachers and principal, we leave our thanks for everything they did, or tried to do for us, and our sympathy for we know they will need it after we've gone.

ARTICLE IV

I, Nolene Adams, do hereby will and bequeath my seat in Mrs. Coleman's Shorthand class to Mary Helen Segraves, and I hope she will enjoy it as much as I.

I, James Adcock, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to play basketball to Sam Hargett.

I, Bettye Alexander, do hereby will and bequeath my love to tease twelfth graders, especially Jimmy Jung, to Martha Barnhardt, hoping that she will be even more of a pest than I.

I, Joe Anderson, do hereby will and bequeath my place in the Physical Education class to Bobby Wilkerson.

I, Lois Anderson, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to have a good time on crowded buses ('specially Concord) to Bobby Wilkerson, knowing he can.

I, Myra Ashworth, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to pass shorthand to any Junior who has ambition enough to try it.

I, Mary Ellen Beaver, do hereby will and bequeath my glee club robe to anyone lucky enough to get it.

I, Mary Frances Belk, do hereby will and bequeath my love for Journalism and Miss Harrington to my "little" sister, Doris.

I, Betty Benson, do hereby will and bequeath my position as majorette to Ellen Bassinger, hoping she has as many swell times as I.

I, Jeanne Black, do hereby will and bequeath my craziness to Blenda Huneycutt, added to the over amount she has, it should have astounding results.

I, Edgar Graham Boggs, Jr., do hereby will and bequeath my ability to sing bass to Donald Elbert Wagstaff, and my center position on the football team to Charles Rabb. Good Luck, you'll need it.

I, Peggy Bradford, do hereby will and bequeath my love for ping-pong and tennis to Miss Ratchford and my position as president of Miss Ratchford's home room to Margaret Cline.

I, Jimmy Brown, do hereby will and bequeath my position as first chair clarinet to Evelyn Alexander, knowing she needs it.

I, Jean Bryan, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to get gas to drive my car to school to Mary Frances Belk, knowing that she needs it.

I, Margaret Bryant, do hereby will and bequeath to Nancy Reece, my love for Marines, knowing she prefers soldiers, and also my ability to eat all the time without getting fat, knowing how she loves to eat.

I, Hazel Cadell, do hereby will and bequeath my nickname, "Caddle," to any herd that cares to pick it up and my love for music to Iris Harrington.

I, Claudine Canup, do hereby will and bequeath my place in the alto section of the glee club to my sister, Joyce.

I, Margie Canup, do hereby will and bequeath my monitor post in the north tower to Evelyn Alexander, hoping she can stay on it without freezing.

I, Ailene Carter, do hereby will and bequeath my seat on the front row of the glee club to anyone crazy enough to want it.

I, Virginia Carter, do hereby will and bequeath my monitor post to Buddy Carter, and my place as typist for the CANNON REPORT to Johnnie Burris.

I, Winfred "Diamond" Carter, do hereby will and bequeath all my draped pants to Jay Wise, hoping he will look more "Zooty" than I did.
